[illegible]'S SUFFERING

From Eczema.—Ears and Scalp Covered with Scabs and Sores.

Cured by Cuticura.

My little son aged eight years has been afflicted with Eczema of the scalp and at times a great portion of the body ever since he was two years old. It began in his ears and extended to his scalp, which became covered with scabs and sores, and from which a sticky fluid poured out, causing intense itching and distress and leaving his hair matted and lifeless. Underneath these scabs the skin was raw like a piece of beefsteak. Gradually the hair came out and wasted until but a small patch was left at the back of the head. My friends in Peabody know how my little boy has suffered. At night he would scratch his head until the pillow was covered with blood. I used to tie his hands behind him and in many ways tried to prevent his scratching but it was no use he would scratch. I took him to the hospital and to the best physicians in Peabody without success. About this time some friends who had been cured by the CUTICURA REMEDIES prevailed upon me to try them. I began to use them on the 15th of January last. In seven months every particle of the disease was removed. Not a spot or scab remains on his scalp to tell the story of his suffering. His hair has returned and is thick and strong and his scalp as sweet and clean as any child's in the world. I cannot say enough to express my gratitude for this wonderful cure by the CUTICURA REMEDIES and wish all similarly afflicted to know that my statement is true and without exaggeration.
CHARLES McKAY
Oct 1 [illegible] Peabody Mass

I have seen Mr McKay's boy when badly afflicted with the Eczema. He was a pitiful sight to look at. I know that he has tried our best physicians and did all a father could for a suffering child but availed nothing. I know that the statements he has made to you regarding the curing of his boy by your CUTICURA REMEDIES are true in every particular.

DOMESTIC NEWS.

Morrison Makes an Effort to Call Up the Tariff Bill

A QUIET DAY IN THE SENATE

Transcontinental Railroad News and Rumor—The Proposed O R & N Lease Racing at Sheepshead Bay—Eastern Notes.

HOUSE

WASHINGTON June 22 Morrison has stated to the house that he will not to-day make a motion to go into committee of the whole on the tariff bill.

Morrison called up the proposed change of rules making it in order to amend the general pension bill by adding a provision for the imposition of an income tax to meet expenditures required by the bill. An interesting debate followed.

The speaker laid before the house [illegible] messages from the president announcing his disapproval of a like number of private pension bills and they were referred to the committee on invalid pensions. Several of the president's terse sentences [illegible] were greeted with uproar and laughter.

On motion of Scott of Pennsylvania the senate bill was passed granting right of way to railroad companies through Indian reservations in northern Montana.

Warner (Ohio) from the committee on invalid pensions reported back the resolution calling on the secretary of the interior for information as to the number of persons now drawing original pensions from the government by reason of special pension acts [illegible] amount of money required [illegible] by the government [illegible] of pensioners [illegible].

In advocating his proposition Morrison argued that its adoption was absolutely necessary unless congress was prepared to grant pensions and leave the government without means to pay them. He referred to the immense sums paid out for pensions [illegible] large amounts necessary for present and future requirements and said that the gentleman from New York (Hiscock) and other gentlemen on both sides of the house had predicted that for the current fiscal year there would be a deficit of $4,000,000. For himself he thought there would be no surplus [illegible] certainly no surplus to compare with the large number of pensions asked.

After a long debate Reed moved as a substitute to lay the resolution on the table. The yeas and nays were ordered, and resulted in the defeat of Reed's substitute—yeas [illegible], nays 1[illegible]. Before a vote could be taken on the original motion Reed moved an adjournment, and the republicans by dilatory tactics managed to consume the time up to [illegible] o'clock when the house adjourned amid an outburst of applause and derisive laughter from the republicans.

SENATE

WASHINGTON June 22—In the senate Maxey from the committee on Nicaraguan claims reported a resolution requesting the president to bring to the attention of the Nicaraguan government claims of citizens of the United States against that government. The resolution was agreed to.

Hi[illegible] called up his motion to reconsider the bill prohibiting members of congress from accepting employment from railroads that had received aid from the United States. The motion was debated until [illegible] o'clock and then went over until to-morrow.

The senate then took up the bill repealing the preemption and timber culture laws. Blair had moved an amendment prohibiting the acquisition in one ownership of more than 640 acres of desert lands. To this Ingalls offered an amendment applying the limitation to all public lands. The latter proposition, which was the pending question to-day, was voted down. Blair's amendment was then voted down—yeas [illegible], nays 42. Senators voting yea were Blair, Dolph and Teller. After some amendments of details and without final action on the bill the senate adjourned.

WASHINGTON NEWS ITEMS

SPARKS' REMARKABLE ORDER

WASHINGTON June 22—The secretary of the interior to-day sent to the senate a reply to the recent resolution of that body directing him to inform the senate whether the commissioner of the general land office had, with the approval of the secretary of the interior, issued a circular suspending applications for entries under the preemption, timber culture and desert land laws. The secretary recites the act of the promulgation of the order and its subsequent revocation and encloses a long communication on the subject from Commissioner Sparks. The secretary says: Authority to issue such a circular was founded upon precedents deemed to be sufficient of more than forty years standing, sanctioned by judicial decisions and by congressional recognition.

A CLEAN SWEEP

WASHINGTON June 22—Delegate Gifford of Dakota says it is the purpose of the administration to make a clean sweep of the territorial judges as soon as congress adjourns. Vacancies will then be filled and appointees inducted into office without having to await their confirmation by the senate.

EASTERN NEWS ITEMS

TRANSCONTINENTAL RAILROAD NEWS AND RUMOR

NEW YORK June 22 Numerous private dispatches having been received here to the effect that the Northwest is pushing surveys for extension of its Fremont and Elkhorn line toward the Pacific and that this work will be more vigorously pressed, your representative waited on Vice President Sykes, who said: "There is no foundation whatever for reports circulated, nor is there any truth in them. We believe that for our present needs a sufficient number of transcontinental lines are already existing."

Union Pacific officials authoritatively claim that a survey for the Northwest is being made to the coast and other well known railroad men say the matter, for some unknown reason, is being kept quiet.

C P Huntington says that although the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe left a settlement with the Pacific Mail Steamship company in his hands at the outset of the war of rates it is not accepted by the Pacific Mail people, who claim they can and will manage to exist without any subsidies from railroads. Clipper circles are completely puzzled over the action of members of the disrupted transcontinental pool. While it is generally believed the different roads are holding off for a meeting of the Atchison Topeka & Santa Fe, to be held the 1st of July, there are many who believe that the firm stand taken by the latter company and their evident determination to fight to the bitter end has surprised Southern Pacific officials. Mr Huntington declares that affairs remain in statu quo with no prospect of settlement, but well authenticated rumor points to a deal which is being quietly made between the warring roads and the Pacific Mail company which will undoubtedly end the war.

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF PHOTOGRAPHERS

ST LOUIS June 22—One thousand photographers from all parts of the United States and Canada have arrived in the city to attend the seventh annual convention, which held its first session to-day. Many foreign artists not being able to attend personally have sent specimens of their work to represent them. An interesting feature of the convention is the exhibition by various photographers of views from the United States, Canada, England and Germany of an infinite variety of subjects, which cover all of the available space upon the walls of the meeting room as well as those of fourteen small adjacent halls and 5000 square feet of partitions which have been erected for the purpose.

SUSPENSION OF A SUGAR FIRM

NEW YORK June 22—The suspension of the firm of Swift & Co, importers of sugars, of this city and at Pernambuco, is one of the most important business failures that has taken place in a long time. The liabilities are about $1,000,000, which is more than equaled by the assets of the firm. Thus far no assignment has been made. Efforts are in progress to effect a settlement with the creditors and resume business at an early day. In the meantime the suspension is causing excitement in the sugar trade of the city and a fear is expressed that other embarrassments may follow. Much sympathy is expressed on the street to-day for members of the suspended firm.

THE PROPOSED O R & N LEASE

NEW YORK June 22 One of the directors of the Oregon & Transcontinental company yesterday sent the following message to this city: "The prospect of leasing the properties of the Oregon Railway & Navigation company to the Northern Pacific and Oregon Short Line jointly has not yet been considered by the Northern Pacific people. The lease itself will probably be made in the course of time, but the Oregon & Transcontinental directors only can approve of it, which they are not very likely to do in advance of their meeting."

The two men clung to the ropes which were washed against the bank and escaped, but the young lady was carried into the Grand river and drowned.

SULLIVAN AND MITCHELL

NEW YORK June 22—John L Sullivan will arrive here to-morrow and will at once go into training near this city for his glove fight with Charlie Mitchell on the polo grounds July [illegible]. Mitchell is here and will train at Far Rockaway. There is talk of a meeting between Sullivan and Dennis. Herald: After the Mitchell fight Pat Sheedy of Chicago, who is managing Sullivan, says he will back his man against Herald or anybody else for $5000.

SHEEPSHEAD BAY RACES

NEW YORK June 22—The day at Sheepshead Bay was wet and gloomy, and the track heavy. The attendance was very fair and the races all that could be desired. In the fourth race Astoria ran against a wire [illegible] on the back stretch cutting through her [illegible] and Meaton, her rider, on his head [illegible] rolled over him. When examined by doctors Meaton was found to be suffering from concussion of the brain. His recovery is a matter of doubt. Just before the first race Anthony Comstock [illegible] sheriff of Kings county made their appearance on the grounds and immediately betting [illegible] called down. Sheriff [illegible] had several warrants for John Doe and Richard Roe, and under them David Johnson, Joseph Cotton, Hermann Trant, Arthur Hackett, Henry Ettlecker and J J McDonald gave themselves up and went to Brooklyn, where they gave bail in $500 each for their appearance when wanted to answer the charge of selling pools. After this they returned and betting went on as usual.

INSURANCE COMPANY AGENT INDICTED

MANCHESTER N H June 22—Jeremiah Horan, agent for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company of New York, has been bound over to the supreme court here for forgery. Detectives have discovered a system of graveyard insurance in practice by which the company has been swindled out of large sums. People who were expected to live but a short time have been insured without their consent, the policies running to parties in collusion with the agent, who would pay the premiums, and the name or mark of the insured party would be forged. Some of the best known people in the state have been operated on in this manner. Horan says that hundreds of applications have been made, insurance placed and in many cases insurance paid at death. Many arrests are expected to be made on charges of conspiracy to defraud.

REASONS FOR REDUCTION OF FREIGHT RATES

WALLA WALLA June [illegible] 1886

To the Editor of The Oregonian.

I wish to briefly state a few facts which show the necessity for a [illegible] reduction in the rates of freight from the country [illegible] of the Cascades to Portland.

First—The wheat and barley crop of 1885 was more than an average one both as to quantity and quality, and yet the farmers, with very few exceptions, either lost money or barely paid expenses owing to the low price of wheat and the high rates of freight.

Second—The crop of 1886 is so far advanced that its outcome can readily be ascertained, and it will be little if any more than half that of 1885. On the lighter lands the farmers in places have already turned hogs into their fields, in others it has been cut for hay, in others it will never be harvested at all, and in places whether it will be or not depends upon a rise in the price of wheat and a fall in the rates of freight. In the very best localities the crops will be as a rule short, and on the lighter lands they will be very bad, so that the utmost that can be expected is a half-crop or between that and two-thirds on an average.

Third—Unless the price of wheat rises, that of sacks falls, or the rates of freight be materially reduced, there will be very great financial distress all over the grain-growing belt here, and if the freight rates be not reduced speedily many thousands of acres that would otherwise be harvested will not be cut or threshed at all.

FISHERMAN DROWNED ON THE BEACH

OREtown, TILLAMOOK CO., June 18

Yesterday evening as B F Cox, who lives on the Little Nestucca, was coming up the ocean beach from his home to the Big Nestucca he found the body of a man on the beach still in the water. Coming on to Woods (Big Nestucca) he gave the necessary notice and R. Weatherl, justice of the peace, acting as coroner, ascertained the following: That deceased probably came to his death by drowning. As he wore an oil skin apron and gum boots he was no doubt a fisherman. He had the appearance of a foreigner, probably an Italian, black hair, height 5 feet 6 inches, about 30 years of age. On his right wrist were tattooed two bracelets in red and blue ink, also on the forearm was the American flag. On the inside of the left wrist were the letters A. L. A. B. There was a large tattoo or picture on each arm, but they could not be easily traced or described. All there was in his pockets was 80 cents and a jack knife. The coroner and his jury buried him on the beach where he was found, though above high tide mark.

THE GREAT CAMPAIGN

Mr. Gladstone Addresses a Vast Audience at Glasgow.

HIS JOURNEY THEN RESUMED

The Intentions of Parnell—Political Speaking in Various Sections of the Kingdom—Other Old World News

GLASGOW, June 22 The arrival of Mr and Mrs Gladstone here to-day was the signal for a great demonstration. The sands of people had waited at the station to greet them, and when they alighted from the train and entered their carriage they were cheered and cheered again by the enthusiastic multitude. Hengler's circus, in which Gladstone was announced to speak, was packed from floor to ceiling. Gilbert Beith M P for central Glasgow, was chairman of the meeting. When the premier and his wife and Lady Aberdeen entered the building they were met with a burst of applause. The audience sang "Auld Lang Syne" and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Gladstone, upon rising, said he was confident that Glasgow would be true in solid liberal work at the coming elections. He would to-day deal with a portion of the great Irish question which had hitherto been little dealt with [illegible] for long [illegible] peculiarly [illegible] He would take his text from the famous Dr. Chalmers, who in [illegible] referred to the impossibility of crushing the Irish people and added that the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] (Cheers.) These words, the speaker said, were words of high Christian wisdom, and he asked his auditors to approach the question inspired with such sentiments. He would deal with three points—security to Ulster, [illegible] arguments deduced from the union of Scotland and England and the question of home rule for Scotland. (Cheers.)

He denied that under the home rule bill Ireland would be an independent country. There are clauses that forbade Ireland to legislate for the establishment or endowment of any religion. The Irish members joyfully accepted the clause; they had always proved that they were in favor of religious freedom. Besides the royal veto would remain. Therefore alarms were groundless and frivolous. Lord Hartington complained that we made no advance on the Ulster proposal in the original scheme. Well, Lord Hartington made no effort to help to do so. Again Mr Saunderson in behalf of the Orangemen advanced the view that the majority of the Irish would be compelled to adopt the view of a small minority. Mr Parnell wanted the assistance of every Irishman in the work of [illegible] Ireland. The government was open to consider every reasonable proposal. If such could be devised for the purpose of giving separate establishment to that portion of Ulster in which Protestantism greatly prevails. But fears that Catholics would persecute the north, where the Protestants are strong enough to protect themselves, were quite baseless.

A DIFFERENCE OF UNIONS

The union of England and Scotland was essentially different from that of England and Ireland. The fundamental difference was that Scotland was always able to hold her own. Scotland met England on a footing of equality and the union with the lapse of time commended itself to the minds and hearts of Scotchmen, while the entire Irish nation was against the union of that country with England. Now he had said that Scotland had become rationally satisfied with the union, but if a great majority of the people of Scotland wished to manage her local affairs within her own borders did they think if they arrived at a clear conclusion to that effect that if the seventy-two Scotch members of the house of commons, sixty made [illegible] a demand for a change, England dare or would wish to refuse them. [Cries of "No, no."]

He ridiculed the proposal of the national radical union to have undealt with the question of Irish local self government, a subject which was ripe for discussion, while the country dealt with local government for England and Scotland, a question which was not ripe for discussion. Mr Gladstone thought this proposed cast iron uniformity of institutions for England, Scotland, Ireland and Wales was a bad, false and vulgar principle. In dealing with the subject of local government the special wants of the different peoples must be considered and also the special history of those people. The main question was whether Ireland was to have free government or be overridden by England and Scotland. They knew now what Ireland wished for. Ireland had not asked for an innovation, because she had a parliament until it was taken from her in 1800 by a mixture of fraud and force. She only said: "In God's name, as you have failed, allow us to endeavor to govern ourselves." Scotland, the speaker continued, had always sent reformers to the reformed parliament. Would she do so again [Cries of "Yes"] or would she send conservatives. If she chose the latter course the responsibility would be hers, not his.

In conclusion Mr Gladstone appealed to his auditors to give their voice in favor of the work of peace and justice. His closing words were hailed with loud and prolonged cheers.

THE JOURNEY FROM GLASGOW

LONDON June 22—Gladstone's journey from the meeting hall at Glasgow to the railway station was a grand triumphal procession. His carriage was escorted by a body of police. Every point of vantage around the station had to be fought for. The streets were filled with a solid mass of humanity shouting itself hoarse. Gladstone showed no sign of fatigue. On the platform a splendid bouquet was presented him, and there was a rush to shake hands with him as the train started. Lady Aberdeen traveled on the same train, and after a time joined the premier's party. Crowds were waiting at every station. They cheered the premier and called for a speech. Gladstone, in most instances returned a few words of thanks. At Carlisle he made a short speech in reference to the unionist candidate there. His remarks were received with mingled cheering and hooting. At Preston there was a decidedly hostile element in the crowd. Cheers were given for Lord Salisbury and counter cheers for Gladstone and Earl Spencer. Chester was reached at midnight. Crowds were waiting at the station despite the lateness of the hour. The party arrived at Hawarden at 1 o'clock this morning and received a hearty welcome from the villagers.

POLITICAL SPEECHES

LONDON June 22—Mr Henry Hartley Fowler, liberal, in a speech at Wolverhampton yesterday said the Irish question would remain unsettled until the evils of landlordism were remedied. He ridiculed the idea that the majority in Ireland would treat the minority under Gladstone's scheme. Canada, he said, was the most disloyal portion of the kingdom until home rule was granted to her. Now she was the most contented.

Earl Spencer speaking at Wycombe yesterday said he doubted whether Lord Randolph Churchill's ill natured address to his constituents would have any effect except to influence votes against the tories. Lord Aylesbury's policy would inevitably end in coercion while Mr Gladstone's would lead to reunion based upon affection.

Mr Childers speaking at Edinburgh said he [illegible] to support any proposal to devote [illegible],000,000 or £100,000,000 to buy out Irish landlords.

POLITICAL NOTES

LONDON June 22—John Bright has formally replied to the tender of the resolutions of the Rochdale conservative association thanking him for having assisted to defeat the home rule bill. He says in his reply: "I am sorry there should be any party in the country ready to accept those [illegible]"

The Marquis of Salisbury in the house of lords last evening opposed the elections bill because of the objectionable nature of certain clauses introduced into it after Gladstone had promised that all contentious matters should be avoided during the remainder of the session. These clauses were those introduced by Labouchere. The Earl of Kimberly, secretary for India, then agreed to withdraw the objectionable clauses in order to save time by preventing the return of the bill to the commons. The lords then read the bill a second time.

O'CONNOR'S CABLEGRAM

NEW YORK June 22—T. P. O'Connor sends a cablegram from London to the Star as follows: Parnell is in great demand in all parts of the country but he intends to confine himself to the large towns in the manufacturing and mining districts where Irish are the major element and the constituencies are represented by mugwump liberals, who have resolved to come forward for reelection. Manchester, Liverpool, Leeds, Sheffield and Glasgow are among the places where he will speak. Mr Broadhurst, representative of the laboring classes in Gladstone's government, says the great labor organizations and the working classes of the country generally have now mastered the details of the home rule question and are resolved to side with Gladstone. Nine tenths of these men had not the slightest idea six months back what home rule meant. Less sanguine Gladstonites claim that the premier will have enough majority to continue at the head of office, but not enough to carry home rule.

A JOINT MANIFESTO

LONDON June 22—Henry Labouchere and Charles Bradlaugh have issued a joint election address to the electors of Northampton, their parliamentary constituency. They declare that there is no middle course in the present campaign; that the choice is between coercion and conciliation. The tories are boasting, the manifesto says, that they will obtain a majority in the next parliament. "We think the people do not believe in aristocratic or plutocratic government. The people must decide whether Mr Gladstone or Lord Salisbury shall govern them."

FROM THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, June 22—The Telegraph contrasts the speeches made by John Morley, chief secretary for Ireland, with those made by Gladstone, and says they are antagonistic. It adds: "If members of the cabinet delay arriving at some agreement on the issues of the campaign there will be justification for the belief that members of the government have no uniform conception of the policy the electors are asked to affirm."

KARL BLIND'S OPINION

LONDON, June 22—Karl Blind writes that the whole fortune of England is at stake in the present crisis. He declares that the handing of the government of Ireland to men whom Mr. Gladstone describes as sworn enemies of England means danger to England and ruin to Ireland. He considers the policy of Bright, Hartington and their followers alone consistent with the safety of the nation.

UNIONIST MEETING

LONDON June 22—There was a large unionist meeting at Paisley, Scotland, to-day. Lord Iddlesleigh addressed the meeting. He urged that the Scotch compel Gladstone to distinctly answer whether the land purchase bill would or would not be brought forward again.

FREE FIGHT AT DUBLIN

LONDON June 22—The inaugural meeting of a branch of the Protestant home rule association, held in Dublin yesterday, ended in a free fight. Several persons were forcibly ejected from the meeting hall.

RAISING MONEY FOR HOME RULE

NEW YORK June [illegible]—"If this continues we shall soon be able to settle the land question ourselves by sending a deputation over to buy out the Irish landlords," was what Gen. Jas. R. O'Beirne, one of the secretaries of the parliamentary fund, said last evening as he surveyed the throng of Irish American and American born citizens who crowded the large parlor of the Hoffman house to put down their names for big sums in favor of home rule for Ireland. No sooner had Eugene Kelly taken the chair and announced that more money was wanted than close upon $10,000 in checks and greenbacks and jingling silver were laid on the table. "We have it on the authority of Shakespeare that the start is all," said Kelly, "and I am happy to be able to emphasize that assertion of England's great poet in a very practical manner by laying on the table $5,000 from a gentleman who does not wish to have his name known but who believes in popular government not only here but elsewhere."

FRANCE

THE SENATE PASSES THE EXPULSION BILL

PARIS June 22—The senate, it is believed, will pass the expulsion bill by a majority of ten.

In the debate on the expulsion bill in the senate to-day Premier de Freycinet said that this government would not tolerate another government in France and would take full responsibility for the expulsion of the princes. He refuted the charge that the government was yielding to the irreconcilables. He declared that order was being maintained throughout France. In closing he deprecated confiscation of the property of the princes, but insisted that common law would not apply to the princes. Finally a secret ballot was taken and the bill as it came from the chamber of deputies was adopted by a vote of 141 to 107. The announcement of the result was received with great applause by members of the senate.

CANADA REBUKED BY ENGLAND

OTTAWA June 22—The latest revelation in the fishery question shows that the imperial government has intimated by cable through Sir Charles Tupper that under no circumstances must the present position on the fisheries question be maintained. The British government has expressed itself as determined not only not to back Canada up but to take such measures that will stop all such proceedings in future. It is this cablegram received by Sir John Macdonald which has brought about the concessions which the dominion government now proposes to make. Throughout there has evidently been a piece of maladministration on the part of the dominion government, it not knowing where it stood.

DOES LOCAL OPTION INJURE BUSINESS?

CHENEY June 20 1886

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN.

Will those who are worrying lest the success of local option should injure business listen to the testimony of places where it has been tried.

There are 101 counties in Georgia under prohibition by local option, and the universal testimony comes that business has increased, labor improved and every material interest prospered. These facts coming from the various counties largely influenced the people of the city of Atlanta, who gave a majority vote for prohibition. The following letter from ex-Gov. A. H. Colquitt will be found full and explicit on this question:

UNITED STATES SENATE
WASHINGTON D C March 20 1886

Prof W W Smith, Ashland Va—Dear Sir: A very few words will do for an answer to your letter of inquiry as to the effect on taxation and property values in Georgia as the result of prohibition. The allegation that these have been affected injuriously is simply a device of the enemy. There has not been the fraction of a mill added to our tax in Georgia by reason of prohibition nor taking [illegible] in Atlanta as un[illegible] has there been any falling off in real estate prices.

A. H. COLQUITT

Rev Dr A. G. Haygood, of Emory college, Oxford, Ga., says: "There is not an informed man in Georgia who does not know that the prohibition counties have enforced prohibition, to say the least that can be said, as vigorously as they have enforced other laws. More, during the Atlanta campaign abundant testimony from county officers was brought forward to show that more convictions were obtained before the courts for illicit selling in prohibition counties than for any other violations of law. This statement illustrates the wisdom of the local option effort; the county that gave a good majority for the law had the moral force to enforce it." The grand jury of Cobb county, Georgia, superior court for November 1885 said: "It is a subject for profound congratulation that since the [illegible] of prohibition crime has wonderfully decreased, the moral atmosphere has been purified and peace and good order prevails; quiet reigns where [illegible] scenes of disorder and confusion were supreme. Property values have increased, our towns show unmistakable evidences of prosperity and our people universally endorse the change." The Savannah News, one of the largest and ablest of the daily papers in the South, in a recent editorial said: "More than three-fourths of the counties in the state have voted out whisky and there is not one of them that is not richer and more prosperous than before its action. In every one of them the people are happier and more industrious, and there is less crime and pauperism in them than there ever was before. The prohibition movement in the state has grown rapidly because wherever it has been adopted its benefits have at once become apparent." The Alabama Prohibitionist says: "Labor has improved 100 per cent in the counties in Georgia where prohibition has been adopted. The business men are fast becoming prohibitionists, a matter of business—and now they wonder why they could not see why the money spent in the saloons belongs to those doing legitimate business and giving value received in return for cash. Men are now saving money and looking forward to the day when they shall own houses builded for themselves. Speed the day."

The following telegram is from La Grange city: "Before prohibition we had thirteen bar rooms. The antis said it would ruin our town, but since our adoption about $150,000 have been permanently invested; twenty new houses now going up, no vacant store or residence and our town greatly improved. Our people are unanimous as to good done by it morally and financially."

These testimonials could be multiplied indefinitely. But why should it be necessary to show that a business whose only result is waste and destruction cannot contribute to the prosperity of a people.

PORTLAND, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 23, 1886.

NOT A MILITARY HISTORY.

In our issue of the 19th we commented upon an article in the North American Review by Don Piatt, which describes Gen. Thomas as "the most brilliant and successful soldier of the war." This Piatt article closed by declaring Thomas the military savior of this nation, one of "five bronze figures who were raised by destiny to save our government in its hour of peril." Lincoln, Chase, Seward, Stanton and Thomas form Piatt's group. This leaves out Grant, Sheridan, Sherman and Hancock, and declares Thomas as the greatest and ablest military figure of the war. The point of our whole article is not, as an ignorant and disingenuous correspondent in our issue of Tuesday puts it, whether Thomas was not a very able and distinguished soldier, but whether he deserves the place accorded to him by Piatt as "the most brilliant and successful soldier of the war" and the military savior of this nation. THE OREGONIAN said of Thomas:

> While he was an admirable soldier in defense or retreat, as at Chicamauga, or in delivering a blow from a fortified position, as at Nashville, he was too slow to execute an offensive campaign or conduct a vigorous pursuit. He was a large man, slow of speech, cautious; given ample time to make preparations he did admirably, but he could not gather himself together quickly and seize the initiative in an offensive campaign. He carried six times more personal baggage and tents than Sherman and Grant together in the field, and, except as a subordinate, he could not be got to move with rapidity or offensive energy.

Of Gen. Thomas Grant in his "Memoirs" says:

> I do not believe that he could ever have conducted Sherman's army from Chattanooga to Atlanta against the defenses and the commander guarding that line in 1864. On the other hand, if it had been given to him to hold the line which Johnston tried to hold, neither that general nor Sherman nor any other officer could have done it better.

Is not this saying exactly that while Thomas could not conduct an offensive campaign, like Sherman's advance, he could conduct a defensive campaign like Johnston's retreat? But this is not all that Grant and Sherman have both said concerning the limitations of Thomas's military talents, although our correspondent ignorantly asserts that this is all. If it was all it would entirely justify our statement, but Badeau's Military History of Grant, Vol. 3, is full of quotations from Grant's official despatches written after the battle of Nashville, concerning the incapacity of Thomas for an offensive campaign. On January 21st, '65, more than a month after the battle of Nashville, Grant writes Sherman that he has decided to break up Thomas's command because "I did not believe Thomas could be possibly got off before spring. His pursuit of Hood indicated a sluggishness that satisfied me he could not conduct one of your campaigns; he is not good in pursuit." On January 18, '65, Grant writes Halleck that he has abandoned the plan of sending Thomas's command against Selma and Mobile because "Thomas is too ponderous in his preparations and equipments to move rapidly through a country and live on it." Sherman's despatches are quoted to the same effect concerning Thomas's incapacity for an offensive campaign. Badeau quotes Grant's despatches of March, 1865, in which he says: "Thomas is slow beyond all excuse"—referring to the fact that Thomas's failure to execute his repeated orders had compelled him to change his plans for the spring campaign in Tennessee and North Carolina.

At West Point Thomas was known as "Old Slow Trot," and was described as a man "too slow to move; too brave to run away." Under the head "Thomas" in Badeau's military history of Grant will be found constant references to Grant's conviction that Thomas won Nashville, not because of his inexcusable failure to take the offensive after the battle of Franklin, but in spite of it. On the 2d of December, 1864, Hood, with 22,000 men, confronted Thomas at Nashville, who had then over 40,000 men. Thomas, in spite of constant urging, did not attack Hood's 22,000 men until December 15, when Thomas had 55,000 men, 10,000 more than he used at all in the fight. These are the official figures given by Badeau in a footnote. It would increase our critical correspondent's knowledge if he would read pages 279, 280, 410, 411, 218, 219, 266, 276, 391, 393, 263, 264 in Badeau.

The criticism of Grant on Thomas is that instead of concentrating his troops and meeting Hood he spread himself in the effort to hold too many points, and that his victory was purchased at needless sacrifice of railroads and material, which, by concentration and aggressive action before or even after Franklin, he could have easily saved. THE OREGONIAN also quoted from Gen. Cox's "Nashville Campaign," Scribner's War Series, for the latest facts and figures, which entirely sustain Grant's conclusion that Thomas erred in judgment.

Our correspondent quotes in reply Johnson's cyclopedia and Barnes's school history. His authorities are obsolete and worthless. Scribner's war series was issued to furnish the public with an accurate detailed account of the great campaigns of the war, and each book was assigned, when possible, to a competent military man, who had personally participated in the campaign he described. Thus Gen. Webb described the peninsula campaign, during which he was on McClellan's staff; Gen. Doubleday tells the story of Chancellorsville and Gettysburg, during which he commanded a division in the First corps; Gen. Humphreys, chief of staff to Meade, tells the story of the Wilderness; and Gen. Cox, who commanded the Twenty-third corps under Schofield and Thomas, tells the story of the Nashville campaign. Cox's book was prepared from the official archives of the war department; his figures of the strength of Thomas's army are official data, and are standard military authority for the details of the campaign, and his book is the most recent publication on this campaign. Cox, in his preface, states that the war department opened to him all its archives, both Federal and Confederate; that he has read all the official reports and narratives of the campaign published on both sides; that he submitted his book for revision and examination to Sherman, Schofield and others, and that his figures as to the number of soldiers at Thomas's disposal are officially correct. The quality of Thomas's troops was excellent. He had the Fourth and Twenty-third army corps, 20,000 of the best soldiers of Sherman's Atlanta army; he had 10,000 seasoned soldiers dispersed in detachments under Steedman, Rousseau and Granger; he had 5000 old cavalry soldiers, who fought as infantry; he had A. J. Smith with 10,000 veterans, and a large number of convalescent veterans, returning to their regiments, all good soldiers. With the exception of A. J. Smith's veterans he could have concentrated all these troops and fought Hood with superior numbers at Duck River and saved his railroads and material, or as Grant expressed it, he was finally victorious, not because of his delay, but in spite of it and at needless cost to himself. This is history: it is not recited in denial of Gen. Thomas's just fame as a distinguished soldier, but in disproof of the ridiculous claim of the North American Review article, that "he was the most brilliant and successful soldier of the war" and "the military savior of the nation." Our correspondent would better add a military history of repute to his collection of school histories and cyclopedias, and become an intelligent critic.

BIG INTEREST.

The passionate greed to get a great deal for a very little explains how many trained men of business, popularly esteemed persons of integrity, shrewdness and caution, get badly burned in stock speculations. They lose their heads when they are baited by the lure of a promise of a big dividend for their money. The risk they take is enormous; they know little of the value of the property they are buying; they know nothing generally of the plans of the party that shuffle stock and deal the cards within the pool; they cannot know the moment that even the inside speculators sell each other out; their broker may be and generally is a speculator too. If he fails, whether the customer has won or lost, his money is gone. If the honest gamblers are "long" of stock their interest account in dull markets eats up their small profits; if they are "short," there may be a squeeze any day compelling them to pay big interest for the loan of stock, or a sudden rise compel them to cover at a loss; and yet with all the chances against them excellent men of business will gamble in stocks when there is no more chance of ultimate profits than there is in faro or in the vicissitudes of draw poker. It is the greed; the big dividend for the small investment, that explains this delusion and all swindlers feed this passion of human nature. The old rule is sound wisdom: beware of men who want to borrow money for their schemes so badly that they offer a pay interest so enormous as to discredit the undertaking in the start as either dishonest or doomed to failure. Big interest is the red blanket that swindlers dangle before the eyes of men when they seek to pick their pockets.

GLADSTONE AND THE CHURCH.

The bitterest enemies of Gladstone are the clergy of the established church, despite the fact that the great statesman has thus far refused to commit himself to the policy of disestablishment. In the parliamentary election of 1885, 480 of the liberal candidates were pledged to favor disestablishment and 1470 dissenting Scotch clergymen signed an address at that time declaring that they looked to Gladstone to overthrow the state church. Gladstone shrewdly attempted to cast the question out of the canvass of 1885 as irrelevant and impracticable, because prematurely presented for discussion and settlement; but this sagacity on his part did not save him from the opposition of the English clergy, who then, high and low, worked early and late to beat the liberals. The Roman Catholic clergy, headed by Cardinal Newman, joined the English church in their opposition to the liberals. So bitter were the English clergy in the election of 1885 that Archdeacon Denison declared that after knowing Gladstone forty-five years he would not trust him with a brass farthing, and on the whole preferred the devil to the "grand old man." During the recent home rule debate Gladstone said that the most abusive letters he received were sent by English churchmen, who do not trust his declaration that the hour of trouble for the church is far off; they do not forget that it was Gladstone who disestablished the Irish church on the plea that "a sect representing only a minority of the community had no moral right to privileges;" nor do they forget that Gladstone has never hesitated to step forward and beyond his old opinions when the situation changes and the people in earnest make new demands. They do not forget that even if Gladstone can be entirely trusted to use his vast influence to keep this question from coming to the front in politics, he must soon pass off the stage, and then who can guarantee that the young radical leaders will be willing to defer the separation of church and state?

No wonder, then, the English church is anxious to beat Gladstone for they know that victory for the liberals under Gladstone or his successor in party leadership is the beginning of the end of the state church. The anxiety of the Anglican clergy is natural, for they know that the agricultural laborers of England, who now have the vote, are as a rule hostile to the church. These peasants are either indifferent to religion, or belong to the dissenting churches, whose ministers do not preach down to the poor, but share their joys and sorrows, because they are themselves of humble rather than of aristocratic birth, and therefore naturally in sympathy with the hopes and fears of the laboring class. Joseph Arch, one of the ablest leaders of the peasant vote, asked the clergy once this question:

> You clergy of the established church have had the agricultural laborers in hand at any rate for 300 years, to do pretty much what you liked with, and what have you made of them? A class of men the stolid helplessness of whose ignorance has become proverbial.

In other words, the state church, as an agent for the diffusion of religion and morality among the English poor, is a failure, compared with the work of the nonconformist clergy. Its wealth has been largely wrung out of those who do not attend its communion; it is intensely aristocratic, while the new voters are democratic in taste and tendency, and while the day of disestablishment is yet far distant from noon, the passage of the franchise bill was its light of dawn. Another reason why the peasant vote hates the English clergy is that they are generally local magistrates who deal out stern justice to all who break the game laws. The English church sees clearly that if Gladstone once triumphs by the accession of this peasant vote he will, when home rule is settled, or to settle home rule, be obliged to yield to the cry of the labor vote and the Scotch dissenters for disestablishment; the result is that the most energetic enemies of Gladstone and home rule are the English clergy, for they see in his victory their own dispossession.

HUNTED BY ITS OWN VICTIMS.

Mormonism, like the Oneida community, rested secure for a time on its isolation and the industrial merits of its government, but it had from the beginning the seeds of failure and death in it, for it made no allowance for the factor of human nature. Mormonism rated woman as a creature that could be trained to be tractable under polygamy by making her comfortable and secure from want in the animal sense of food, clothing and shelter. So long as their civilization was isolated this was measurably true, but the moment that railroads brought a better, more economical and more refined population in considerable numbers to their doors the revolt and ruin began. That spiritual discontent that all women feel under such relations began to be displayed. The force of circumstances had made it dormant, but it was not dead. Indeed it is so firmly rooted in human nature that it never dies, and eventually this discontent and revolt of debased but not wholly destroyed womanhood will put a dagger for the throat of polygamy into the hands of the law.

A condition of oriental slavery may serve to keep women the childish slaves and toys of the satyr who owns them by purchase, but it is not possible for a civilization based on polygamy to take firm root and flourish where women are exposed to the daily attrition of a monogamous civilization. The factors of family affection, sympathy, fidelity and personal attachment cannot be safely ignored where women have any chance for successful revolt, and Mormonism will die ultimately at the hands of its revolted women. There was money and comfort, pure physical, pecuniary comfort in the Oneida experiment; there is a certain industrial success in the Mormon experiment, but all these experiments, whether they involve polygamy or not, are doomed to die when they cease to be protected by isolation from revolt and decay, because they forget that material comfort satisfies only one side of human nature. The yearning for spiritual happiness must also be satisfied and the doctrine of communism or the scheme of paternal government, which seeks to sink all individualities into a mere lump, plastic to the hand of the potter, is sure to build up a civilization that has death in its clothes, for all its artificial might of combination in capital, or communism in any of its forms, will be met and finally foiled by the irrepressible instinct of human nature to mind its business when it can, rather than have all its individual freedom of action usurped by government.

It was hoped that the medicine of defeat would cure the republican party of Oregon of its chronic disorder of mismanagement. It was hoped that defeat would unhorse the corrupt ring. But even in defeat, even with its treachery exposed, the ring holds the reins. If the republican party had a little of its old time spirit, Joseph Simon, after the exposures of the campaign, would not continue to be its official head. If the party were ready or able to purge itself, Mr. Simon would be deposed as a traitor with every mark of contempt. But this will not be done. No member of the state central committee will move his deposition. If by any chance it should be moved, the ring will control enough votes to defeat the proposition. None of the several men who aspire to party leadership has the nerve to demand reorganization of the committee because all are afraid of offending the all-powerful Portland ring. Not until it takes on a higher morality and a braver spirit, will the republican party be worthy of respect and success.

MANUFACTURES THAT PAY.

While "financiers" are declaring that it will not pay to manufacture in Oregon, men who make no pretensions to financial ability are demonstrating that it will pay—proving that it will by the good evidence that it does. Here and there in various parts of the state there are small enterprises conducted under all the disadvantages which attend retail manufacture, but which nevertheless yield a living and a little more to those who operate them. We have in mind the enterprise of an old man and his sons in Columbia county, who make cedar doors for the general market. They began two or three years ago with no capital, but industry and a thorough knowledge of door-making. They have worked in a small way, at first cutting down with their own hands the trees from which their doors were made. Little by little they added to their mill, until now they have a plant worth in the neighborhood of three thousand dollars and nearly all paid for. They have a steady and growing business, have acquired a large body of cedar timber, and are prosperous now and on the high road to wealth. All this has been accomplished during the dull times, when the "financiers" have not been able to make enough out of their great idle mills to pay taxes. Thrift, industry and close management have "shown the road" to capital.

The lime works established at East Portland a few weeks ago have proved entirely successful. The single kiln is being worked to its highest capacity, and it is thought that one or two more kilns will soon have to be set up. In connection with this enterprise, another has been started, that of barrel making, it having been found cheaper to make the barrels on the ground from Oregon timber than to buy them in the East. Thus, one industry leads to another, and all work together for the benefit of the country.

These little enterprises are but examples of many like them in various parts of the country. They support the assertion so often made by THE OREGONIAN that manufacture will pay in Oregon, as it does elsewhere. The plain truth is that no rational enterprise was ever yet begun in this state that did not pay if its management was efficient.

NO NEST FOR SOCIALISM.

Senator Hawley, in his Memorial Day address, among other things said:

> Men are not lacking in our land who have visions of the spread of an imported disease sometimes disguised as peaceful socialism, but revealing itself at times in wild anarchy, dashing savagely at all institutions, human and divine. * * * The broadest doctrines of liberty, absolute, universal liberty, not license, are laid down as the foundation stone of all our constitutions, all our bodies of state laws. There is no wrong without a remedy. There is no uneasy fit that cannot be easily adjusted. There is no aspiration of the people that may not freely utter itself and spring organized into the arena, in the endeavor to make itself known in the speech of the orator, the resolution of the convention, and after due discussion, buffeting and struggle, perhaps, become crystallized in law and constitution. Let us have no fear of serious or lasting disturbance. In the struggle of labor for better days I distrust the efficiency of statutory devices in solving a problem that can only be settled by the free citizen. The capitalist and the laborer must become neighbors and meet as friends. They may change places to-morrow. They can stand side by side to-day.

Gen. Hawley is right. With suffrage all but universal, a perfect democracy in religion and politics, there is no such thing as socialism as a native outgrowth of our institutions. A few thousand exiles, or foreign industrial tramps, shout socialism from mere force of habit, yelling in a land of freedom the old party cries they bring from a land of political tyranny, while communism is confined to a few fellows who played petroleuse in Paris. Socialism and communism in America is a bit of imported nonsense, no more likely to take root here than polo, imported by "Jim" Bennett, is likely to become our national game. There is no native nutriment in our soil for socialism, communism or nihilism, for the simple reason that they are nothing but a reaction against absolute government, a protest against political tyranny, a disease incident only to low forms of government, dying like a malaria in the comparatively pure, dry air of our democracy. Even the limited form of republican government maintained in France is dissipating communism. It is absurd to quote diseases of despotisms in religion and politics in denunciation of democracy, as the pope did a few years ago in his encyclical letter. Pleading in this age for the alliance of church and state is a bull against a comet, since it is the wailing protest of a dying hierarchy against enlightened Christian democracy in full cry, or in other words it is the inquisition barking and snapping at the heels of the reformation. Doctrinaries, like Joe Cook, may grow magniloquent about the Rubicon and the coming rule of "the man on horseback," but plain Americans know that our soil has been seeded down too long to liberty under law to furnish ready root to either communism or Cæsarism.

The rates on the O. R. & N. roads are much too high, and they ought to be reduced. This THE OREGONIAN has frequently stated and urged. But it is a somewhat remarkable exhibition of cheek to find the Northern Pacific denouncing the O. R. & N. for maintaining extortionate rates; and it is amusing moreover to find a two-hundred-million-dollar corporation denouncing a twenty-five-million-dollar corporation as a bloated monopoly.

It is an amusing fact that the very step-ladders used in picking fruit in this state are imported. There are no doubt thousands of home-made step-ladders, but there is hereabout a considerable sale of eastern-made ladders—simple combinations of wood and nails—at about $5 each. The market is so great that the ladders come out in carload lots. Ah, this is an enterprising country!

Professor Sumner of Yale college thinks industrial schools are a detriment "as they lower the wages of men employed upon the trades learned at the schools." You might as well say that no boy should ever learn a trade, lest he come into industrial competition some day with his father, his uncles and his cousins.

When prohibition gets here men like Gerdes will no longer have a motive for seeking places in the city government, and the liquor ring will cease to control our elections. And prohibition is traveling this way in seven-league boots.

A party of O. R. & N. directors with Elijah Smith, president, have gone to Eastern Washington to look at the country. This will be a good time for those who are clamoring for reduced rates to put in their petitions.

The southern counties of Lake and Klamath are attracting many newcomers. The population of the latter has more than doubled in the past two years.

Peculiar in medicinal merit and wonderful cures—Hood's Sarsaparilla. 100 doses one dollar.

SEASIDE EXCURSION EXTRAORDINARY.—The Christian church will always try to outdo everybody else especially in the excursion line [illegible] triple excursion from Portland to Astoria Fort Canby and Ilwaco accompanying their grand excursion from Ashland to the ocean in the swift and magnificent sound steel steamer Olympian commencing July 1 and ending July [illegible] inclusive. Tickets entitle the holders to go down on the Olympian either Thursday July 1 leaving Portland at 5 A M or Saturday the 3d leaving Portland at [illegible] P M and are good to return on any one of the three trips of the Olympian from July 1 up to and including the night of Monday July [illegible] This gives an opportunity to take a trip to the ocean on the famous Olympian during the holidays and yet spend both the 3d and 5th or either day as desired in Portland and the remainder of the holiday vacation either at Astoria Fort Canby Ilwaco or Clatsop or all these places may be visited as tickets are good to stop off at all or any of the points during the full time named. In fine this is one grand excursion susceptible of being carved into a large number of very desirable lesser ones as choice may dictate. Opportunity is given those going with this excursion of remaining at either Astoria Fort Canby or Ilwaco either one two three or four days as may be desired and that too during the holidays. A second boat will go down Saturday night to take such as cannot go earlier. This certainly eclipses anything yet announced in the way of excursions. Tickets adults $[illegible] children $1. For sale at Prentice's No 10[illegible] First street.

RESISTING A STREET IMPROVEMENT.—The principal case on trial before a jury in Judge Smith's court yesterday was one wherein [illegible] H S Perkins, Jessie M Honeyman Louis Benz Wm Sherlock Mrs R Sherlock J Sorenson, L Knoll Kate Knoll Mary Ahern and G Mitchell object to the damages awarded them by the common council by ordinance providing for the extension of D street from North Nineteenth to North Twenty Second. Besides objecting to the damages they oppose the extension. There are nine lawyers in the case the reviewers to the proceedings of the council being represented by McKee & Shattuck Bingham & Nicholas, R and E B Williams and Moreland & Fenton. City Attorney Tanner is looking out for the interest of the city of Portland. To keep company with the multitude of attorneys twenty two witnesses have been subpoenaed and as each is kept an hour or two on the stand it will take some time to try the case. This is the third time an objection has been made to the assessment for damages awarded on this extension and in the two previous instances the city was beaten. It is claimed the extension only benefits the property of certain property owners between Twentieth and Twenty first streets, and Twenty first and Twenty second streets and owners between Nineteenth, Ella North Twentieth Twenty first and Twenty second who claim not to be at all benefited are called upon to help pay for the improvements.

RECEPTION TO GEN HOWARD TO-NIGHT.—An opportunity will be given the many friends of Major General O O Howard to meet him this evening in the hall of the Young Men's Christian Association. Hon L P Thompson has kindly consented to preside. Brief addresses will be made by the chairman Rev Dr Lindsley and President Williams to which Gen Howard may be expected to respond. A delegation of the G A R assisted by the Fourteenth infantry band will escort Gen Howard to the hall from the steamer [illegible] line on which the party will arrive from Vancouver at 5 45 P M. At the close of the exercises in the hall the general will receive in the parlors. Gen Howard was formerly in command of the department of the Columbia and during his stay won the high regard and esteem of all who met him not only as one of the most successful and efficient military commander but also as a Christian gentleman. Gen Howard accompanied by his son is en route to Ohio and this occasion will be the only opportunity afforded a large number of warm personal friends to grasp the gallant soldier by the hand and hear words of cheer from his lips. The exercises in the hall will commence at 8 P M. Owing to the brief time for preparation no special invitations will be issued. All friends and the general public are invited.

PRIMITIVE FISHING.—A gentleman who returned from Yaquina Bay yesterday states that the deep sea fishery inaugurated there by Kendy [illegible] is proving a great success. The fishing is done by Indians from canoes. They fish in about 120 feet of water a mile and a half or so from the shore. They use no bait but have the shank of their hook covered with a [illegible] the glitter of which attracts the fish and the hook does not reach the bottom till it is seized by fish. There are two Indians to each canoe and at present five canoes are employed. The beauty of this system is that there can be no great loss. If an Indian or a canoe goes down all that is necessary is to go up to the reservation and get another one. With favorable weather and persistent fishing it would seem as if his enterprise would in time solve the Indian problem as far at least as the Alsea agency is concerned. There is no limit to the amount of fish which can be furnished. The ocean is alive with them just begging to be caught and to increase the supply all that is necessary is to increase the number of canoes and Indians. People visiting the bay this summer can have lots of fun going out fishing in a canoe—that is if they can see any fun in so doing. All participating will do well to make their wills before embarking.

GETTING EVEN ON THE MOSQUITOES.—An OREGONIAN reporter who was out in the woods a few days since and was badly bitten by mosquitoes is now having his revenge. He caught about a million of the larvæ of the mosquito and put them in a glass jar partly filled with water with a piece of mosquito bar over the top. He has put the jar in the window of the reporters' room and spends the greater part of his time with heels on the window sill smoking three for a dollar cigars and watching the mosquitoes hatch out and fly around their prison until they become exhausted and drop into the water. The maddened insects thirsting for human gore rave around and fill the jar with hollow murmurs which sound much more musical than when the bloodthirsty wretches are at large. When remonstrated with for his cruelty the torturer replies that he is trying to make the punishment of these mosquitoes fit the crime of their relatives and he desires to have it as lingering as the painful bites which adorn his hands and face. The other occupants of the room live in mortal terror of the cover coming off the jar and a whole swarm of ferocious and starving mosquitoes being turned loose to prey upon them.

FIGHT BETWEEN SEAMEN.—Maurice Nicholson the second mate of the lumber schooner Excelsior lying at Weidler's mill wharf was fined $10 by Justice Davis yesterday for thumping James Ward the steward. The trouble occurred Monday morning. It seems that part of Ward's duties was to bring coffee to the first mate Charles Soutterstrom the second mate and other officers. On the morning in question he refused to do so telling them to go to the pantry and help themselves. Nicholson took exception to this and the result was hard words and a knock out match in which the steward posed as the second best man. He caused Nicholson's arrest for assault with a dangerous weapon but as Nicholson's fists are not considered dangerous weapons the charge was reduced to one of assault and battery, of which charge Nicholson was convicted. Ward drew the first mate into the case by claiming he had had a hand in the fight but this the first mate easily proved to be false so he was told by the court to wend his way in peace.

CHANGE IN TOWBOAT AND PILOTAGE ARRANGEMENTS.—A meeting was held to-day between the executive committee of the Portland towboat company and Captain Flavel at which it was agreed upon to extend the schedule of towage charges so as to cover a larger class of vessels than formerly. The towage charge for vessels from 1000 to 1800 tons register will in future not exceed $[illegible] inward in ballast $[illegible] inwards loaded vessels 1800 to 2000 tons register will not exceed $[illegible] $425 and $400 as above. For going orders to vessels [illegible] than $100 will be charged. Vessels coming in to the river seeking and leaving without finding business will be charged only one rate for towage in and out of the river. In view of the low rates of freight now prevailing and in order to encourage owners to send their vessels to this port the meeting decided to reduce the rate of pilotage on vessels crossing in and out over the Columbia river bar to $5 per foot each way.

TROUBLE OVER WATER SUPPLY.—The town of Albina has been in a ferment during the past week over the question of a water supply. Messrs. Foster & Moran had a well driven about two months ago, and erected a tank laid mains and commenced to supply water to the citizens. About a week ago the East Portland water company commenced laying mains on Chapman street. The men engaged on the work were arrested at the instance of the road supervisor for injuring the public highway without authority. They gave bail and will have an examination before Justice Fittinger in a day or two. The East Portland water company have instituted proceedings in the state circuit court to restrain the Albina people from interfering with the progress of their work and in the meantime are going ahead laying their mains with a large force of men. The matter has caused considerable excitement and hard feeling.

ON A CLAM BED.—The former steward of the steamer Washington who is now connected with a leading restaurant in this city tells of a trip when the boat lay too long at a landing on Fidalgo Island and the result was a detention of four hours on a bed of clams. The tide had ebbed and there was no help for it—they had to stay—a Portland drummer for a safe firm was aboard and suggested that the steward and crew gather clams and furnish a supper of bivalves. The suggestion was acted upon and that evening the passengers dined on clams in every course. It was a meal not soon to be forgotten. If the hotel keepers at the coast will treat seasiders after this fashion there will be less growling in future. People don't go to the coast for mutton beef and the like. Here is a pointer which is given gratis and as the diet is cheap, the hotel keepers will be ahead in the long run.

INJURED BY A FALL.—H Miser of East Portland while painting upon a building on the corner of Eleventh and Salmon streets yesterday afternoon fell from the scaffolding to the sidewalk below and suffered a fracture of the left arm and severe bruises about the face. He was conveyed to his home in East Portland and attended by Dr Flinn. His injuries are regarded as quite serious. The accident was the result of carelessness in the arrangement of the hooks supporting the scaffolding.

MASONIC DEDICATION.—The Masons have [illegible] finished a new and handsome hall at Vancouver and it will be dedicated to-morrow evening. [illegible] The steamer [illegible] will leave the wharf at the foot of Alder street [illegible] All Master Masons [illegible] daughters and sweethearts are cordially in[illegible] A large delegation will attend from this city and as the boat will return after the exercises [illegible] a royal time will be had. Rev T W Hill will deliver the oration and a banquet will be spread after the dedication. Round trip tickets on the steamer 50 cents.

EVERYBODY SHOULD VISIT LATOURELLE FALLS.—Everybody has seen Multnomah falls [illegible] very few have seen Latourelle falls yet all admit that in beauty of the falls and the surroundings and in advantages as a picnic ground Latourelle falls are far superior. Why don't more people visit them? Simply because they can only be reached by steamer at high water. The water of the Columbia is rapidly falling. Those who want to visit them this summer should go with the Hall street excursion of the Wide West next Saturday. Only 50 cents the round trip children [illegible] cents.

LOWER WHARVES UNCOVERED.—The Willamette is falling rapidly. The lower floor of the Columbia River Paper Company's wharf came above the surface yesterday and a force of men was busy with hose and brooms cleaning away all the sediment and rubbish deposited by the flood. The [illegible] lamas steamer Traveler and the City of Sellwood will probably be able to land at the lower wharf to-day. In regard to high water this season there seems to have been lots of fear but no danger.

COMPANY K.—It is more than likely that company K of the state militia will be made a permanent organization. Last night the balloting for members of a permanent company from the present ranks began and will be continued at each regular meeting till the bottom of the list is reached. The weather just now is not the best in the world for drilling, yet the esprit de corps is undiminished. Company K will parade at the coming celebration.

THE NEW PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—The building committee of the First Presbyterian church of which Hon H W Corbett is chairman have selected W F McCaw as their architect and he is now preparing plans and specifications for a church of stone. It has not yet been decided whether the building is to be of wood brick or stone but if the committee think they can raise the funds it will be of stone.

REMONSTRANCES FILED.—The Northern Pacific terminal company have filed a remonstrance against the improvement of North Seventh street from A to North Front, and they especially remonstrate against the improvement between I and North Front street. The same company remonstrate against the improvement of North Third street and especially that part of the street between G and North Front.

INVITATIONS.—The invitations to the Pennsylvania and Ohio society excursion being limited many persons for whom they were intended must of necessity be disappointed in this particular. It is sufficient to say that all Pennsylvanians, Ohioans people from other states Oregon and elsewhere are expected to be on board the Olympian Saturday June [illegible] Respectability is a good passport on this occasion.

TO LATOURELLE FALLS.—An excursion will be given to Latourelle falls next Sunday. The Wide West will leave Ash street wharf at 8 A M carrying a full brass band. The promoters have taken every precaution to insure the comfort and enjoyment of the excursionists. No liquors will be allowed on the boat and objectionable characters will not be tolerated. Tickets are $1 children under 13 [illegible]

STRUCK FOR MORE FOOD.—There was a rumpus out at the poor farm on Monday. The lepers who are kept in an inclosure by themselves it appears struck for more grub or fresh meat. They marched down on the superintendent's residence in a body armed with clubs and had to be very roughly treated before they were driven back. It may be that the poor farm needs investigating again.

TOUR OF INSPECTION.—Yesterday afternoon President Smith of the O R & N and a party of tour from New York left by special train for Pomeroy. They will go over all the company's lines in Eastern Washington and return late this week. The following Portlanders accompanied the party: C H Prescott C J Smith H S Rowe W S Ladd C H Lewis and Henry Failing.

NOT INSANE.—J Pilger writes to THE OREGONIAN from San Francisco that there is not a word of truth in the report that his wife had become insane. On the contrary she is in perfect mental and bodily health and superintending regularly fifty girls employed in her dress making establishment. The report Mr Pilger thinks must have been started by some malicious liar.

WILLING TO FURNISH MUSIC.—The Sterling band express their willingness to play at the plaza every Saturday night for the benefit of the public if they are furnished with lights. The cost would be a mere trifle and as the band makes very creditable music it would seem as if there need be no difficulty in arranging for concerts if any one would take the matter in hand.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Last night Chief of Police Parrish received the following dispatch: Spokane Falls June 22.—Chief of Police: Man found dead here, name unknown, had book with the names John McFarland and Thomas Murray both of Portland Or. Can you give any information? C S Penfield, Coroner.

THE CASINO.—What was lacking in the first performance of The Widow O'Brien was not wanting last night and that is snap. There is a great deal of merriment in the play and the company know how to produce it. The Widow is good for a fine week's business.

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

OREGON

GRANT COUNTY

The [illegible] Teachers' Institute will be held in Canyon City.

The special term of county court meets on June 28. The regular term, when the new officers are to be sworn in, will be on the first Monday in July.

Flinn Bros intend engaging in the butcher business in Canyon City. They are erecting a slaughter house as fast as lumber can be obtained.

A large number of cattle are being shipped out of Harney valley this year. Most of them are shipped from Ontario. Peter French is driving a band to Wallula.

The papers are blowing about Grover and Frances Cleveland going fishing and catching eight trout in one day. That's easy to do, even a moderate sized kid has caught over one hundred trout in Canyon creek in two hours.

UNION COUNTY

The county court of Union appropriated $1000 for the completion of the Union and Pine creek road.

Mr. [illegible] of [illegible] Canyon, who was kicked by a horse three weeks ago, is recovering rapidly from injuries received.

Wallowa Chieftain: F. J. Forsythe, special deputy clerk at this place, went to Union last week to settle with the clerk the squirrel tail business. He took with him 125,000 tails, for which he received [illegible] cents apiece in county scrip. This was the largest number of tails presented by any one man in the county, and was no doubt the largest number of tails ever accumulated by one person.

Mountain Sentinel: A Sentinel reporter one day this week visited the old jail where Fred Wiggleman is confined, and found him still suffering untold agonies from the terrible burns he received in the burning of the Baker City jail last year. Dr. G. W. Biggers is attending him, [illegible] a possibility that [illegible] man will recover, but only to be [illegible] and his misery cannot be imagined.

CURRY COUNTY

At [illegible] $[illegible] has been subscribed to aid in building a bridge over the Sixes river. Port Orford is expected to give $250, and Port Orford [illegible].

The Coos Bay stopped in at Port Orford Thursday, and landed several passengers. She also called in at Port Orford, landing, among others, Senator Siglin.

A new twenty five ton schooner is on the stocks at the mouth of Sixes river, the builder being Mr. Logan, a ship carpenter, late of Canada. The vessel will be employed in fishing and hunting about the rocks off the local coast.

Southwest Oregon Recorder: Only a few days hence and the old tri-weekly mail service between Port Orford and Bandon will be resumed. Another effort should be made to induce the postal department to order the resumption of the Denmark-Myrtle Point route.

The house and effects of Mr. Black, a new settler about two miles back in the hills, were burned last week during the owner's absence at the Point, where he is at work. As there had been no fire in the house for many days and nothing about it of a combustible nature, it is supposed that some careless or evil-disposed person did the burning.

KLAMATH COUNTY

Linkville is full of people this week attending circuit court.

J. O. Hamaker has sold his band of horses to California parties for $40 all around.

The Little Klamath Water Co. has levied an assessment of 10 cents a share, payable on July 1.

The citizens of Linkville have very wisely determined to build a nice school house soon—one worth $2500.

Crops are looking finely in this section and a heavier yield than ever before is anticipated. The acreage is also greater than ever.

Robt. A. Emmitt of Plevna, one of our most enterprising farmers, is building himself a neat residence. He is also fencing more land.

About 600 votes were cast at the late election in this county, which is almost double that cast in 1884. The democratic majority has also increased two fold.

Frank Baker, while engaged in repairing the government telegraph line, had one of his legs fractured in two places a few days since. One of the climbers he was using broke and let him fall a distance of fifteen feet.

Gen. John F. Miller is defeated for representative by a small majority, probably ten. Lake county gives him 125 majority, while Klamath county gives Robt. McLean 130. The swamp land issue defeated the democratic candidate.

LINN COUNTY

The little son of Newton Fields, who resides in Sweet Home, fell from a tree a few days ago and broke his arm.

Prof. W. S. Walker is authority for a statement that a bed of genuine meerschaum has been discovered near Albany.

Suit was instituted yesterday against [illegible] county by [illegible], bridge contractors, for $[illegible], [illegible] due on the contract for repairing [illegible] Anderson bridge.

Prof. J. [illegible]well, once of Albany, now of Seattle, W. T., it is reported, has been stricken with paralysis, so that he is helpless and speechless, without prospect of recovery.

A 7 year old daughter of G. W. Foust, of Brownsville, is dangerously ill with croup and not expected to live. A surgical operation upon the throat was found necessary.

Albany Democrat: Last Sunday evening while wrestling in Benton county, a few miles from this city, Alvin Westgate had his right arm broken in a somewhat bad manner.

Albany Herald: A pool of wool containing nearly 19,000 pounds made up by farmers adjacent to this city, in the Froman and Fry neighborhood, was sold on Thursday at [illegible] cents per pound—considerable of an advance upon the market price.

Albany Herald: We are informed by Messrs. Ed Thompson and Senator-elect R. A. Irvine, who were in Corvallis the other day, that there was good authority that work would be commenced this week upon the line between this city and Corvallis.

BAKER CITY

Two hundred and fifty dollars is offered for the apprehension of the person or persons who set fire to a building in Baker City last Saturday night.

Sagebrush: Near Sumpter, June 16, Fred Weigman was found dead in his cabin and buried the following day. He was an old pioneer of this county.

The trial of E. P. Ball for manslaughter has been concluded. This is the second trial in which the jury failed to agree, and the district attorney, Mr. Clifford, dismissed the case, which seems to be indorsed by every one who is acquainted with the facts of the case.

In Justice Boynton's court Saturday two warrants were issued—one against J. H. Norwood for assault with deadly weapon, trial set for June 24, the other against Andrew McMordre for assault with dangerous weapon, hearing set for June 4. Both defendants reside on Wilson creek.

Last Wednesday Wm. Jackson, a young man in the employ of Mr. Beasley, was thrown from his horse while driving stock about five miles this side of Sparta, and it is thought fatally injured. Dr. Snow was called on Friday at noon; the young man had not regained consciousness. The fall resulted in a concussion of the brain.

A certain lawyer from Union has been devoting a day or two in Baker City to collecting evidence not calculated to be of a flattering nature concerning his wife, whom he married two years ago. The lady in question recently took a vacation at her own expense and is now in Mexico. The departure was a surprise to the disciple of Blackstone, but he professes himself very much relieved at receiving the information from the erring one to the effect that henceforth he and she must be strangers. He says he shall procure a divorce if possible, but at all events will go to Michigan and wed a daughter of the Wolverine state.

CLEVELAND'S FINANCES

How he Draws his Salary and What he Does with it—His Private Fortune.

Washington Letter.

I notice that the president gave Dr. Sunderland a crisp new $100 bill as a wedding fee, and threw a new $5 note into the contribution plate when he went to church at Deer Park last Sunday. Some one, in commenting upon this, remarks that the president had his wedding money made for him, like his wedding suit. The president always has new money. On the first of every other month the treasurer of the United States makes out a check for $4166 66 and sends it over to the White house for his signature. To make the half cent come out even, every odd month the check is made out for $4166 67. The president, after signing the check, returns it to the treasurer, who has the cash ready in an envelope, all new bills, of various denominations, fresh from the bureau of engraving and printing. He never handles any money that has been used by other people, unless he receives it as change in making purchases.

President Cleveland, as several of his predecessors have done before him, keeps an account with Riggs & Co., the bankers, and makes a deposit there whenever he draws his salary. He usually sends over by Col. Crook, who is a sort of quartermaster at the White house, an even $2000, and keeps the remaining $1166 for current expenses. I am told that his bank account has shown a balance as high as $35,000 at one time, but he made a check the other day for $21,500 in payment for his new residence in the country, which, with his wedding expenses, must have made quite a hole in his pile.

The president is an economical man, and his expenses have not been anywhere near as great as those of Mr. Arthur. He seldom entertains people at the White house, and while his official dinners have been elaborate, they have been few in number, and the lunches given by Miss Cleveland last winter to ladies in official life were inexpensive. Only four private servants are kept by the president, the remainder of the attendants at the White house being paid by the government. He has one pair of horses and a driver to pay for, but he gets all of his forage and household supplies from the quartermaster's department of the army at contract prices which are much lower than other people have to pay. Mr. Cleveland's wants are few, and he has never had any extravagant habits. In Buffalo he lived in a suite of two rooms in a business block, and took his meals at a hotel. His friends say he had an income of from $5000 to $7000 a year, and never spent more than a third of it. When he was elected governor he was worth from $35,000 to $40,000, and he has been living in the White house at a rate not to exceed [illegible], so that he has added considerably to his capital. This will bring him about $[illegible], it is said, and as he is a prudent, conservative man, he will leave the presidency worth a quarter of a million or more.

His expenses will be larger now that he is married than they were before, as he must necessarily see more of society and extend his hospitality. The cost of living at the White house depends upon the number and character of the entertainments given. A state dinner seldom costs less than $[illegible], but a reception does not cost anything, as the music and flowers are furnished by the government, and no refreshments are served. The wedding was not an expensive affair, although everything was very nice. The present to the bride is said to have cost $1500—a diamond necklace, and then there were the expenses of the wedding cake and the supper to pay for—$1000 would cover it all.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MAINLAND

Interesting News Concerning the C. P. R. Vancouver Extension—The Vancouver Holocaust—The First Through Train.

PORT MOODY, B. C., June [illegible].—The matter of the right of way to the Vancouver extension of the Canadian Pacific railway is still in dispute. The supreme court has just decided that under their charter the company has no right to take the right of way. The court holds that even if their charter covers the extension under the branch line provision it is pretty strongly considered a branch, owing to the fact that the company has no railroad within nearly 300 miles. This is owing to the fact that the British Columbia section of the C. P. R. has not yet passed out of the hands of the contractor, Andrew Onderdonk. The dominion government has yet to accept the road from him, and before that is done they will have to purchase his rolling stock and plant according to agreement, to satisfy him some way his claim, or something like $1,000,000 for extras, about which they have as yet failed to agree. The contractor's rolling stock and plant is pretty extensive and [illegible], so it hardly seems probable that any agreement will be made as regards the bill for extras very speedily. After these matters are settled the government will have to turn the road over to the syndicate before they can exercise [illegible] charter. If it is even then decided that its charter covers the Vancouver extension, which will be disputed energetically. Thus it seems improbable that Vancouver will be the Pacific terminus of the C. P. R. at any [illegible] near future, and Port Moody will not lose [illegible] so long, enough to give it a substantial start if not indefinitely. As the extension [illegible] for speculative purposes, the delay may [illegible] the bubble so thoroughly that the [illegible] no object in going to Vancouver.

Large numbers from here [illegible] of the Vancouver holocaust. [illegible] was swept clean out of existence in little more than an hour, and the only [illegible] the common council [illegible] burned ruins and stumps [illegible]. The only buildings left were [illegible] Royal City [illegible] hotel and Hastings [illegible] extremities of the town. There was scarcely any insurance, as the insurance companies would take [illegible] risks and those at a very high rate. Nearly all business men, most of very limited means, who had [illegible] all invested in building [illegible] numbers are ruined. Hundreds of people were left with nothing but the clothes on their backs. The town was full of roughs and desperadoes, who plundered right and left. The police force was very inadequate to restrain [illegible]. The list of fatalities is swelling to nearly a score. Owing to the cosmopolitan character of the citizens it is very difficult to identify the dead. While the ruins were yet smoking lumber was being hauled in all directions and buildings going up. The town will doubtless be rapidly rebuilt.

Hon. J. W. Trutch, dominion government agent, and Henry Abbott, superintendent of the [illegible] division of the Canadian Pacific railway, left for [illegible] east of the mountains by [illegible] train yesterday.

It is stated on good authority that the first through train will leave Montreal for Port Moody on the [illegible] and it is expected here [illegible].

[illegible] two weeks [illegible].

THE COURTS

U. S. CIRCUIT COURT.

George [illegible] admitted to practice.

United States vs. Bayles—Set for trial Wednesday [illegible], without a jury.

[illegible] of Yamhill [illegible].

POLICE COURT.

Yesterday in the police court [illegible] John McCall [illegible] fight with C. F. Willis. [illegible] is to be tried to-day. The eleven vags brought in Monday were disposed of to the tune of thirty, sixty and ninety days. Charles Jackson, who [illegible] a watch from the Rheinpfalz hotel, a clock from the Portland lodging house, etc., waived examination to appear before the grand jury, and in default of bonds was sent to the county jail.

In the case of D. J. Abrams and A. A. Knox vs. Julius Heubner, James R. Lowry, George R. [illegible], L. Lyons, the Portland Savings bank and others, Judge Stearns has confirmed the sale on execution of 160 acres of land in section 2, T 1 N, R 1 E. The property was sold by the sheriff June 5th and brought $5000. Abrams and Knox were the purchasers.

Gardner Bros. yesterday got judgment by default against C. H. Henderson for $48 55. The suit was to recover on four promissory notes.

Judgment by default was rendered yesterday by Judge Smith in favor of Sweet, Dempster & Co. against W. J. Quinn, the tailor, for $[illegible] for goods sold and delivered.

In the case of Bernard Verdier vs. John Blaine, executor of the estate of Herr Manciet, deceased, an order was made by Judge Stearns that a mortgage on lots 1 and 2, block 128, city of Portland, be foreclosed. September 11, 18[illegible], Manciet borrowed $6000 on the property, payable March 1, 188[illegible], and on October 8, in addition, $4000, payable two years subsequent. Both these loans were negotiated from Ladd & Tilton, and May 5, 1884, were assigned to Bernard Verdier for a valuable consideration. The interest on the two loans has been paid, but none of the principal, so there is still $[illegible],000 due. The lots above described are those on which the St. George hotel stands, and in pursuance of the order of foreclosure the sheriff is ordered to make a sale.

THE TUB RACE

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

Will you please answer the following questions if the answers are known:

At the foot of which street is the start to be made?

What is the distance?

Will the race be up or down stream?

Does the committee furnish the tubs?

To what committee or chairman are the names of those who wish to enter to be given?

The above inquiries no doubt refer to the tub race to take place on the 5th of July. Probably the sub-committee will make due announcement of particulars.

CHINESE IN THE CHURCH

The eastern papers are printing the following paragraph taken from the Chicago Tribune's report of the Baptist conference held in that city last month:

The Rev. Mr. Henry, of Portland, Or., gave an interesting account of the work of the Baptist church among the Chinese on the coast, in the course of which he said that out of [illegible] persons [illegible] were Chinese. One [illegible], a grocer, was expelled from the church because he had said that he would rather go to hell with a white man than to heaven with a Chinaman. The members of the church thought that he was in a fair way to get to the former and hotter place.

Blaine and Gladstone.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

If Mr. Blaine were not much younger than Mr. Gladstone, we might say that the latter had been the pupil of the former, for he has come around to almost every doctrine held by Blaine in his boyhood, as indeed the Americanization of Great Britain has been exceedingly rapid in the past twenty years everywhere.

"I Love Her Better than Life."

Well then, why don't you do something to bring back the roses to her cheeks and the light to her eyes? Don't you see she is suffering from nervous debility, the result of female weakness? A bottle of Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" will brighten those pale cheeks and send new life through that wasting form. If you love her, take heed.

THE EAST SIDE.

The Tie Vote between Bancroft and Shaver Decided—Special Council Meeting—Serious Accident—Brief Notes.

A special meeting of the East Portland common council was held last evening for the purpose of canvassing the election returns from the first, second and third wards. Mayor Raffety presiding and all members present except Bloomer and Gruner.

The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and amended so as to read:

Resolved, That the recorder be and is hereby instructed to draw a warrant in favor of himself for the amount of the Division street damages and tender the property owners the money.

The minutes as amended were thereupon approved.

A communication was read from J. W. Brazee, setting forth that lot [illegible], block 1[illegible], East Portland, owned by him, had been sold at city marshal's sale; that he had inquired of the city treasurer previous to the delinquent sale and had been informed that all taxes were assessed to said lot [illegible] the amount claimed to be delinquent [illegible], and asked that the city marshal be restrained from giving a deed to said property. Referred to the judiciary committee and city attorney.

Bills of W. S. [illegible], 75 cents, and J. N. Band, [illegible], were read and referred to the committee on current expenses and accounts.

On motion of Mr. Wheeler the council then went into committee of the whole to canvass the city election returns, Mr. Nelson in the chair. The result as declared did not differ materially from the figures published in THE OREGONIAN yesterday. [illegible] The vote in the [illegible] ward was found to be a tie between Messrs. George W. Shaver and F. A. Bancroft, wherein, in accordance with the provisions of the city charter, the council proceeded to determine the result by lot, Mr. Bancroft being the winner. On motion of Wheeler, adjourned.

NORTHERN PACIFIC IN THE SENATE.

Comment on the Action of the Corporation Senators on the Forfeiture Bill.

Washington Special to New York Times.

The senate has at last disposed of the bill to forfeit a small portion of the Northern Pacific railroad's land grant. The railroad senators were unable to put the bill through in just the shape wanted by the Northern Pacific, but that company can not complain very loudly of the measure as it was finally passed. As introduced by Mr. Dolph, the bill forfeited the lands adjacent to the Northern Pacific route from Wallula to Portland, between which points the company has never pretended to [illegible] the construction of a rail, and according to Messrs. Mitchell and Dolph never intends to lay a rail. As passed the bill forfeits these lands and also the lands adjacent to whatever portion of the Cascade branch of the road is not completed at the date of the passage of the act. At present there are only 75 miles of the Cascade branch unfinished. Railroad senators say that the lands adjacent to this part of the route are practically worthless. Other senators rate their value as high as $4 an acre. The addition of the Cascade branch lands was proposed by Mr. Van Wyck, after he had satisfied himself that that was the most he could hope to get the senate to forfeit. It was the Van Wyck amendment over which the long fight was made, and it was not until late this afternoon that the vote by which it was added to the bill was taken. Mr. George occupied about two hours in discussing it, a speech he began yesterday in support of the forfeiture, and Mr. Mitchell added another to [illegible] his speech [illegible] the Northern [illegible]. The vote was taken on the Van Wyck amendment. It resulted in a majority of six for the proposal, the figures being [illegible] in the affirmative and [illegible] in the negative. Three of the negative votes were thrown by Messrs. Brown, Payne and [illegible]. The rest were by republicans, including Messrs. Edmunds, Sherman, Miller, [illegible], Frye and Blair. Nine of the votes for the amendment were cast by republicans. As soon as this result had been announced Mr. Eustis offered as a substitute for the [illegible] bill forfeiting the whole of the Northern Pacific grant not earned in July [illegible] under the terms of the granting act. It was a hopeless undertaking, but some of the senators fought hard in support of the substitute. Mr. Vance made a ringing speech in its support and so provoked the republicans that Messrs. [illegible] and Hawley replied with speeches denouncing the democratic party, glorifying the republican party and waving the bloody shirt as if the bill had been upon the stump. Mr. Saulsbury was moved to answer in unusually vigorous language, and then Mr. Edmunds [illegible] something [illegible] against the forfeiture. He spoke again after Mr. Call had favored the Eustis substitute and then Mr. George finished the long debate. The roll-call showed eleven democrats and Mr. Van Wyck in support of the substitute and thirty-two senators of both parties against it. The bill was quickly put upon its passage after this vote and it was adopted by a majority of thirty-nine in a total of forty votes. The lonely negative was cast by Mr. Blair, who did not propose to break his record on railroad legislation. Had Mr. Edmunds not gone home to dinner after the Eustis substitute was defeated, Mr. Blair would have had his company in the negative column. Mr. Harris announced that he was paired with Mr. Edmunds, who would have voted against the bill.

If your complaint is want of appetite, try half a wineglass of Angostura Bitters half an hour before dinner. Beware of counterfeits. Ask your grocer or druggist for the genuine article manufactured by Dr. J. G. B. Siegert & Sons.

Death of a Modoc.

Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

Frank Modoc, a remarkable Indian, one of the 200 prisoners of Gen. Canby in the Modoc war, died at Portland, Me., Saturday night. While with his fellows in the Indian territory he became a Christian, and by his urgent and repeated requests prevailed on the Indian office to pay his expenses to Oregon, where he labored to convert his people to Christianity. He made some fifty converts, but desiring to be educated so as to be of more value in his chosen work he came East by the aid of the Society of Friends to attend the Oak Grove seminary, a Quaker institution in Portland. He devoted himself to study with intense earnestness and won the respect of all by his high mental capacity as well as his earnest religious nature; but he wore his life out in the task he had set himself and died of a decline at the age of 40. The Indian is certainly a man and a brother.

A Remedy for Lung Diseases.

Dr. Robert Newton, late president of the Eclectic College of the City of New York and formerly of Cincinnati, Ohio, used DR. WM. HALL'S BALSAM very extensively in his practice, as many of his patients, now living and restored to health by the use of this invaluable medicine, can amply testify. He always said that so good a remedy ought not to be prescribed freely [illegible] as a sovereign remedy in all cases of lung diseases. It cures consumption and has no equal for all pectoral complaints.

ALL RUN DOWN

From the weakening effects of warm weather, by hard work or from a long illness, you need a good tonic and blood purifier like Hood's Sarsaparilla. If you have never tried this peculiar medicine, do so now. It will give you strength and appetite.

"I was completely run down and was for nearly four years under medical treatment, being given up to die by physicians. My mother urged me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. At last I consented, and I have never taken anything which helped me as much as Hood's Sarsaparilla, which restored me to health and vigor. I have been taking it about four months and am now a different being. I can work all day with very little fatigue. I recommend it to any one whose system is prostrated." ETTA NOBLE, Peoria, Ill.

W. [illegible] Fick, of North Bloomfield, N. Y., suffered [illegible] years with a terrible dark scrofulous sore on his leg, [illegible] that I had to give up business. [illegible] Hood's Sarsaparilla.
